I got to work alongside Donte, I considered him a friend. I have never known anyone else who was always so happy and genuinely enjoyed life as much as they possibly could. He equally brought that happiness to every life that he touched. I saw how much he cared for everyone around him. He always shared what he had with others, giving advice, sharing his experiences and wisdom, and just doing whatever he could to make your day better. My deepest condolences to his family, friends, and everyone else that was blessed enough to know Donte King.
